COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

The selectmen, at their meeting last Monday night, opened the quotations on a new loader. All prices were the net difference between the new machine and the old one we are going to trade. They varied from a low of $16,720 to a high of $23,000. Since Monday, the highest one has revised their quote to $19,800. The lowest priced machine does not meet the specifications we requested.

Next week we will be receiving demonstrations, either here or at various job sites, of all the machines we are interested in viewing. These machines are in the $20,000 to $21,000 price range.

The assessors have been working the last two Saturdays. They plan to go out again this Saturday, then finish their work evenings. We should be able to get the tax bills out earlier this year.

Anyone who plans to purchase a fishing license should make an effort to do so Monday through Friday as no one is taking any home week ends. It could be difficult to find some one to come to the office over the week end. The office is open 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., Monday through Thursday. Friday it is 8:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m.

Elwyn Dickey

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Colista Morgan, Cor. — Poking around the hillside and fields the other day, looking for Mayflowers I found along the way other things that were interesting. The fields and woods are so fascinating that there is always something new for that is where we set the vision free.

It was wet in places for the slow spring rains filled all the hollows. Little lakes had developed in the fields, transforming the landscape into something unexpected. Now it has ended and we have a luscious green world reaching toward the sun. It looks up at us clean and flashing with all weariness gone. Our brooks and rivers run high. May, so full of growth and flowers, bird songs and bee hums. May, with its subtle change, and with its mellow charm. May, with its earth warmer, its sky more genial, and its winds more amiable.

This is a time when the earth is new, the moonlight marginal and the dawns miraculous.

The winds today were laden with the delicious smells of uncovered earth. There was the tender blue of the sky and I could hear the cheerful chirping of the ground sparrows.

Out across the wide green valley, there was a bright splash of rose from the maples against the shimmering green of the pines and hemlocks.

The sun was shining, the air crystal clear, yet balmy, and the far blue hills enchanting. The voices of the birds were an almost constant background to all other sounds.

I found a beautiful spot by a sparkling brook which hurried out from under its rock bridge. There was a tiny moss covered bench just made for sitting. Through half closed eyes I looked across the valley to the west. The mountain held numberless streaks of white, shoulder dunes and cliffs reaching to the darkness of the forest.

I was aware of the forest sounds; the water rollicking, so clear that every pebble on the bottom was magnified.

As I neared home the breezes gently swayed the branches of a tree where I heard the catbird calling his happy melody. He is back and will stay until after time. He contemplates so much gaiety as he demands attention acting like a clown. He may sing his ever-so-sweet song then pause to say "Huh?" or do his scat singing. Then he jeers at all in his show-off way. He really is capricious and that's why I like him.

A first butterfly fluttered in front of the garage, bright and sunny as its vivid yellow wings flared against the subdued color of the background.

At the end of the lawn the hepaticas were in bloom.

As the day ended with a pretty sunset, the hydra, the smallest of all frogs with his many friends started their chorus for the night. As they sang their mouths became enormously distended. The shrill note that suddenly erupts is startlingly loud. If you are close by and accidentally move, he disappears as if by magic from his spear of green on which he clings by means of suckers on his toes. He really is a stranger; he's just a spring peeper. Year after year we listen to his exultant and strangely unmelodious voice for it brings us the warmth of another season.

SENIOR CITIZENS ANNIVERSARY

The tenth anniversary of Bethel Senior Citizens was celebrated at Sunday River Inn, Wednesday, May 10. The weather was fair and the spacious Inn situated between the towering mountains made a fine setting for the happy party.

Presiding officer, Joan Coolidge, was at head of the table and the roll of the first meeting was called. Eleven charter members were honored and letters from absentees and 11 members, Alice Taylor, Marjorie Bellings, Jennie Coburn, Edith Hays, Pauline Mason, Maggie Lavoie, were read.

Emily Saunders, an original founder and honor guest, spoke of the origin of the group. The local chapter, assisted by several young women with courage and vision invited about 100 citizens over 65 to a dinner at the Methodist Church, May 10, 1962. Sixty-four appeared, the first of many fine times.

Mrs. Pearl Tibbitt then told in fond remembrance of ten years of warm friendship and fun.

The late Arthur Johnson of West Bethel was the first president. Minnie Wilson, the first secretary, is still the faithful scribe.

A moment of silent prayer observed the loving memories of Florence Bond, who for seven years served as president in a capable, generous and highly popular regime.

Mrs. Tibbitt spoke of the many successes the group has received: the excellent lunches served by all local women's and church organizations, the banquets and entertainments given by the Chamber of Commerce, the cordial hospitality of Bethel Inn, the Norseman, Marjorie's Bethel Spa and Sunday River Inn.

She recalled the kindness and generosity of "Mach" McMillan, and other members told of incidents during the Christmas decorations, evening trips and foliage tours through gorgeous October mountain towns, which he and his wife gave to the group.

Programs and social gatherings have always been harmonious and enjoyable. There is often group singing often reverent and patriotic songs, with Florence Thurston at the piano.

Before the meeting closed an invitation to the dress rehearsal of Telstar's Dramatic Club's presentation "Avenue and Old Lace" and one to attend "Mary Poppins" at Joe Farnham's School of the Dance, were received.

A lavish buffet lunch was enjoyed as the closing feature of a memorable occasion.

The year 1982 will show changes. The Senior Citizens feel secure that younger members and local citizens will keep faith with them and their way of life.

FABRIC SHOP TO OPEN IN BETHEL NEXT MONTH

After June 1, Bethel will have a fabric shop and this shop can be expected to be a little different. Presently under construction at the corner of Church and Main Streets, the shop will be known as Wool 'n Weft. It is to be located in the rear portion of the building which already contains The Window Box, gift and specialty shop. Both shops will be under the general supervision of Betty and John Willard. The fabric shop will have a private entrance off Church Street.

The name Wool 'n Weft is derived from historical English terms wool and weft which have been used to denote the filling yards which are inserted in a warp to make a woven fabric.

The shop will offer outstanding apparel fabrics including polyester doubleknits, tricot print dress fabrics, cottons, woolsens, worsteds, cotton prints, acrylics, and many specialty fabrics. McCall patterns will be featured together with a wide range of notions. In his present position with the Research and Development Division of J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc., the nation's second largest textile producer, Mr. Willard is in a unique position to bring first-hand experience with the latest in fabric developments to this new Bethel shop.

Wool 'n Weft will provide tailoring services under the expert supervision of Joan Coolidge. Fittings can be made by appointment.

The shop will open on June 1 with the sponsorship of a sewing contest. All age groups will be represented: through junior high, high school, adult. Upon registering for the contest each contestant may choose a free pattern with the purchase of the fabric to be used. The competition will be finalized with Mollycoddle Day and winners will be asked to display their assembled outfits in the Mollycoddle Day parade. Prior to opening of Wool 'n Weft, interested parties may direct questions regarding the contest to Betty Willard at The Window Box.

A film, "Not Me Alone," will be shown followed by a discussion led by Dr. John Makin, Chief of Obstetrics.

NEW VISITING HOURS AT RUMFORD HOSPITAL

Rumford Community Hospital announces that visiting hours in the children's unit have been changed to: 11:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon and 4:00 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. daily.

Previous hours of 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. were too exhausting for young patients, especially when the small children's unit was full to capacity.

R. W. Williamson, administrator, said the shorter hours were arranged with the approval of nursing service and Dr. Handanos, pediatrician, with the welfare of the children in mind. The new hours will allow nursing personnel to perform necessary procedures more easily, and may help children to get better sooner.
